Designs on our environment?

Establishing multi-disciplinary working for the public realm

Public Art Forum and Public Art South West

invite you to participate in this one day event that will explore the powers and practice that impact on multi-disciplinary design processes.

The event will bring together speakers to discuss the political and practice based issues that impact on how we design our environments. It will be of interest to those engaged in the design, delivery and maintenance of our public spaces, commissioners of public art, artists and design professionals.

The next Forum event will take place in Autumn 2004. For further information visit our website www.publicartforum.org.uk.

TO BOOK return the slip below. Last date for bookings is Thursday 15th April. Please note that cancellations can not be refunded after this date.
