1. APPLICATION PROCESS

Stage 1 Expressions of Interest

Expressions of Interest are sought from artists (or a team of collaborating artists) to deliver a piece of Public Art. Shortlisting will be based on the information provided (see Appendix A) using the Evaluation Criteria set out in Appendix B. Please read Appendix A carefully and comply fully with the requirements.

The deadline for receipt of applications is Monday 27th April at 12.00 noon.. The selection panel will consider submissions received by this deadline and select up to three artists to go forward to Stage 2 of this process.

Stage 2 Proposal

£500 (euro equivalent) will be made available to up to three artists / teams who will be invited to present their proposals to the selection panel. The proposal must include; sketch designs, visualisations and/or a maquette as well as an explanation of the concept for the artwork, how it relates to our theme and how the artist/artist team would approach its design, fabrication and installation. Details of maintenance requirements and lifespan expectations should also form part of the presentation.

The artist/artist team must demonstrate how the work can be implemented within the allocated budget and details of the anticipated duration of the project with timescale broken down into research, production and delivery. The selection panel aims to select one artist / team to undertake the commission.

The Merville and District Family Resource Centre will be at the heart of this project and the selected artist/artist team must demonstrate how they will work with the community to develop a sense of ownership / pride in the piece & the environment and most importantly help create a shared space for all. Therefore the artist/artist team must also outline the approach they will take to engage and work with the local community and showcase the successful project.

Selected artists / teams must submit their presentations to Mary Mc Kinney, Merville Family Resource Centre, James St. Merville, Co Donegal.

2. BACKGROUND

The project seeks to develop a legacy artwork reflecting Merville's journey towards peace.

The Building Peace through the Arts – Re-Imaging Communities Programme themes are community cohesion, regeneration through the arts, positive relations at the local level, peace and reconciliation, connecting communities.

Merville and District Family Resource Centre applied for funding under the Building Peace through the Arts – Re-Imaging Communities Programme to develop a piece of public art that would reflect and crystallise the local populations perception of their district as a border town linked to our neighbours across the border through a shared history and a shared future. As a first phase of the project Merville FRC brought together a local steering group to help manage the project. Artist Mhairi Sutherland was recruited to carry out community consultation with a wide range of local groups including cross community, different age groups and cross border groups.

The consultation process sought to identify what is important to people living in Merville and District, what they feel should be embodied in a piece of art that will be there permanently. Through the consultation process and the conversations that took place among the groups people came to have a better understanding of differing points of view, different histories, different aspirations and we hope that this deeper understanding is reflected in the outcome of the process.

The artist presented a comprehensive report on her consultation to the steering group. It was agreed that 'The Flow of the Foyle' was the theme most open to artistic interpretation.

The preferred location for the public art is The Shore Walk (along the Bath Green), Merville.

The walk is a 45-60 minute walk along a coastal path skirting Lough Foyle. The river Foyle has significance to the locality of Merville and our neighbours in Northern Ireland far and above its physical presence. We share the River Foyle. It serves both as a border and a link between our communities. For centuries it has been used by saints, soldiers, fishermen, smugglers, emigrants and immigrants. For many of us it is what we see every morning when we look out our window and the last thing we see at night when we draw our curtains. This we share with our neighbours in Eglington, Greysteel, Limavady and all those communities in County Derry.

The Bath Green was bequeathed to the town of Merville by the Montgomery family (ancestors of Field Marshall Montgomery), with the stipulation that no building should take place in the area. It is now widely used by the local population and visitors especially from Derry/Londonderry as a recreational space for walking. The proposed site would be in view of the large numbers of people who use the walk.

Quotes from participants in the Building Peace through the Arts consultation process reflect some of the thinking behind the proposed theme:

'Very good, always good to see people or groups trying to do something for the people, by the people'.

'I think any project that brings people together is good. Art is a great way everyone can get involved, great way to give ideas without having to write'.

'Really enjoyed the project and would love to take part in more projects'.

3. ARTIST'S BRIEF

Theme : The Flow of the Foyle

The overarching theme of the consultation programme emerged as the interconnectedness of the Foyle basin with the communities that live and work along its shores. Together with the subsequent patterns of migration and emigration, sustenance and hardship, ecology and history, the river has a defining influence on the relationships amongst its inhabitants. Moville, with its location on Lough Foyle, was the departure point for thousands in the 19th century, from the famine period onwards. Moville is one of five designated Heritage towns by Donegal County Council, because of its history of emigration. The location therefore is very significant to the Irish 'diaspora' not only those connecting to the local area, but also to those whose families passed through from the wider area.

However, there are many other influences and impacts that arise from the Lough Foyle as a key feature in the lives of people of the area, and the consultation showed that emigration as a motif of the river, is felt more to belong to the past. A number of other themes emerged as more relevant than emigration to the current communities, many connected to the river in some form, but with a focus on activities ranging from boat building to Fair Trade, from kayaking to the Regency Walk along the shoreline. Other areas of interest included archaeological sites to the importance of Skype and contemporary communications as people keep in touch with home.

Within the overarching theme of the influence of the Foyle, there were three main, connected themes which emerged and which were common across the groups which took part in the creative consultations. They are:

1. Marine histories
2. Industries and landmarks
3. Strong communities.

Project Specific Constraints: It is part of the artists brief to contact utilities companies and statutory agencies for advice in regard to nearby services i.e. electricity and water supply for any artist wishing to incorporate light or water as part of the art works, although this is not a pre-requisite of the brief. Any work involved in extending the services to the site will be part of the overall budget.

Materials: The brief does not specify the materials to be used, but the artwork is intended to be permanent and of high quality. Therefore should be made of high quality, durable materials which require minimum maintenance.

Other Considerations: The successful artist / team will be expected to provide satisfactory drawings and elevations to satisfy planning procedures. On completion of the project, the successful artist will be required to provide an engineer's certificate to satisfy the groups Steering Panel that the artwork has been designed, constructed and installed in accordance with current standards and judgments.
